bio

My professional path started in Argentina, where I worked in the Customer Services Industry for some years and, in parallel, dedicate my free time to get more involved in other areas, such as Programming, Photography and learning new languages.

In the beginning of 2019, I decided to move to Barcelona, and change my professional and personal life almost completely. I decided to make a career change and I joined a Full Stack WebDev Bootcamp at Ironhack, and currently I'm starting a new path in a new Industry, which fills me with excitement and push me forward to a new self-development path.
